

Journal of Surgery, Periodontology and Implant Research

Copyright Transfer Agreement

The Journal of Surgery, Periodontology and Implant Research (JSPIR) requires, formally and in writing, a transfer of copyright for each published article. Therefore, we ask that you complete and return this form, keeping a copy for your records. Any delay in submitting the form will result in the delay in the publication of the article. In case the article is not published, it is null, having no effect, the signed agreement.

It must be signed and returned, by uploading the document correctly filled in the submission form section, before the manuscript can be considered for publication. <https://www.journalspir.com/instructions-for-authors.html>

The JSPIR ("the Holder") will be pleased to publish your article ("the Work"), tentatively titled: _____

The undersigned author (s) transfer to the Journal of Surgery, Periodontology and Implant Research (JSPIR) the patrimonial content of their copyright on the work. To do so, the author (s) warrant that the work is original and of its authorship with the exception of passages of text, figures and data whose source is clearly referenced, and accompanied by permission to reproduce the material issued by copyright holders, where necessary. The author (s) affirm (s) that the work has not been formally published in any other medium.

The author(s) will be the sole responsible for rights that may be claimed on the work object of this agreement or the inclusion in his work of elements of other works.

The transfer of copyright assigns to the Journal of Surgery, Periodontology and Implant Research (JSPIR) the legitimacy of, without limitation, mechanical, electronic and visual reproduction, electronic storage and retrieval as well as all forms of publication, the digital edition and a paper edition, including all subsidiary rights.

The author(s) maintains the right to make additional copies of all or part of the published article for use in teaching; the right to reuse all or part of this material in a compilation of works of own authorship, the right to make copies of the published work for internal distribution within the institution where it works.

Copies made in these circumstances will continue to contain references to the source and rights of the Journal of Surgery, Periodontology and Implant Research (JSPIR).

The author(s) agree to inform the co-author(s), if any, of the above terms. The author(s) certify that have obtained written permission to use the text, tables and / or illustrations from any source protected by copyright and agree to provide such permissions in writing to the JSPIR upon request.

Disclosure of conflicts of interest.

All affiliations of the author(s), institutional or corporate, and all sources of funding that support the study are recognized. Except when disclosed on a separate sheet, the author(s) certifies that does not have commercial associations (eg consultancies, patent licensing agreements, equity interests) that may represent a conflict of interests in connection with the submitted work.

Experimental procedures in humans and animals.

The Journal endorses the principles embodied in the Declaration of Helsinki and insists that all investigations involving human beings reported in articles of the Journal be carried out in accordance with those principles. The authors reporting in their experimental work on humans, or animals, should also cite evidence in the Materials and Methods section of the paper that this paper was approved by respectively a panel of clinical / human institutional experimentation or an institutional panel of care and use of animals (or equivalent).

In all that is omission in this agreement, will be the relations between the Author and the JSPIR regulated by the Code of the Copyright and Related Rights and other applicable domestic and international legislation.

(This agreement must be signed by all authors.)
